BURHILL ESTATES ACQUIRES TWO GOLF COURSES FOR ITS PORTFOLIO

Burhill Estates has added to its growing portfolio of golf interests with its latest acquisition of Aldwickbury Golf Club near Harpenden and Redbourn Golf Club and Driving Range near St Albans.

These acquisitions bring the total number of clubs owned by Burhill Estates to ten. Included in the portfolio is the prestigious Burhill Golf Club, Walton-on-Thames, Surrey.

Aldwickbury Golf Club and Redbourn Golf club and Driving Range are well-established neighbourhood courses, both of which have a firm base of members and strong support from the local markets.

Paddy Mitchell, Managing Director of Burhill Estates commented: “These two clubs fit into our market perfectly. They have been exceptionally well run and working with the teams on site, it is our intention to improve further the product for the enjoyment of members and casual players alike.”

As well as proprietary members clubs, Burhill Estates has a strong interest in the pay and play market, the most well known of which is Hoebridge Golf Centre also in Surrey. The group is well regarded for its level of investment in its facilities and recent spending on the upgrade of its courses, coaches and short game areas has topped £2 million .

Aldwickbury Golf Club, Harpenden. Heralded as the best addition to Hertfordshire golf in recent years. Designed by Ken Brown/Martin Gillett the ‘Park’ course is a splendid test of golf – 18 holes, 6,352 yards, par 71. This is complemented by a second 9 hole par 3 course, practice facilities, an attractive clubhouse, fully stocked golf shop and PGA qualified professionals.

Redbourn Golf Club and Driving Range. Boasting two fine parkland courses the complex has been thoroughly refurbished with a modern clubhouse and floodlit driving range. The 'Ver' Course is 18 holes, 6,506 yards, par 70 and the 'Kinsbourne' Course is 9 holes, 1,361 yards, par 3. A flourishing teaching Academy with a team of PGA qualified professionals has a strong junior section.
